Employers May Be Causing Undue Hardships State Official Says

Local employers who have indicated a reluctance to hire draft eligibles and members of the reserve are working extreme hardships on individuals and families in this area, Mrs. Wagona F. Hils, local office manager of the Torrance office of the California Department of Employment, reported this week.

Mrs. Hils pointed out that many members of the National Guard, members of reserve components of the armed forces and young men of draft age will not be called into service because of family obligations or veteran status.

"It is the responsibility of all employers within the community to use the abilities of this segment of the labor force to the fullest possible extent," she stated.

Employers who have no such discriminatory policies are urged to contact Melvin Sparks, Veterans Employment representative, at the California Department of Employment, telephone Torrance 417, and list their job openings with the local office in order that proper referrals of these persons may be made. Young men who have met resistance in obtaining employment by reason of eligibility for the draft, or military service, are likewise urged to contact the nearest office of the California Department of Employment for possible referral to one of the many job openings now listed, she stated.

FATHER, SON TO OPEN RE-UPHOLSTERY STORE

Bringing his 25 years of experience in the business to Torrance, is Meyer Vinik, former upholstery store owner from New York and Miami, who will open a re-upholstery shop at 1927 West Carson street today.

Vinik will be associated in the business with his son Jack, who will manage the store. The shop located just west of the Five Points Intersection on Carson street, will be equipped to do all types of upholstery.

'The Hasty Heart' To Be Aired Sunday

Hailed as one of the best plays to come out of World War II, "The Hasty Heart" will be presented on the U. S. Steel hour-March 11, with John Lund, Jane Wyatt and Richard Greene in the leading roles, via stations of the NBC network at 5:30 p.m.

Sweeper Reaches His Life's Goal And Was Happy

how little the man had amassed during his 61 years is being investigated by the Public Administrator's office.

A Legion buddy said the veterans would turn over what ever there might be to the state if no relatives were found.

A BATCHELOR
Never married, "Heine" has a sister, Mrs. Diddy Fritz Strieff 21 m. r. in Switzerland. Other relatives, nieces and nephews, are living somewhere in Compton.

"Heine" had peculiar tastes. He liked his beer warm. Wouldn't touch cold beer. In fact one local bar kept a special "Heine" box of warm beer beneath the counter. On several occasions bar tenders have run not water over a bottle of beer to warm it up for the small man.

The doctors say he died of cirrhosis of the liver. His friends can't quite agree. They say he may have died of a broken heart—and they mean it. Two years ago the city bought an automatic three-wheeled street sweeper and "Heine" lost the job he had held for nearly a quarter of a century.

STILL WITH CITY
Up to the time he went to the hospital on January 30 he was still working for the city in the Park Department.

Fighting for his adopted country, Heine served as a private in Company H of the 63rd Infantry during World War I.

Born in Switzerland on April 14, 1889, he came to Arizona when he was six and then after came to live with Mr. and Mrs. Addis Thomas now living at 22401 Ocean avenue. He lived with the Thomases for nearly thirty years. About nine years ago he moved to the Brighton Hotel, 1639 1/2 Cabrillo avenue, where he was living at the time he died.

LIKE THE OUTDOORS
The little man liked the outdoors. He liked his freedom. For instance, there was the time some of his friends took him to the Harbor General Hospital—he being a bit reluctant to go. He was registered, assigned a bed, and directed to get in it. When his friends returned to Torrance and walked into a local bar, there sat "Heine" having a warm glass of beer. He had crawled out beneath a fence.

So this afternoon, Legion Commrades, fellow workers, and friends will pay last tribute to "Heine," a man who found happiness in life doing the job he always wanted to do.

Debut at Harbor Tech

The first printed edition of the Harbor Hawk, weekly student newspaper at Harbor Junior College, rolled off a new $100,000 Miehle cylinder bed press at the local college on Friday, Feb. 23.

About Rats

City Manager George W. Stevens.

Commenting upon the County's report councilman Willys G. Blount, said:

"I believe if it weren't for the fact that certain individuals having recently purchased homes near the dump, there wouldn't be all the fuss about the dump being overrun with rats."

"They simply want a better view out their front yard and want the city to pay for it. It would be just as logical for a person buying a home across from Columbia Steel to demand they move the steel mill because of the noise."

"Certainly these 'bellyachers' must have noticed that two-and-half acre hole in the ground when they bought homes near it a year or so ago."

"Not one member of the council favors the maintenance of rats or any other health menace. I believe I speak for the other members of the council when I say we do not favor the expenditure of a large sum of the Torrance taxpayer's money to improve the personal property of one or two men."

"It has been estimated we could close the dump and have it filled with hauled in dirt within one year or continue to fill the pit with refuse and have it filled in 365 days," the councilman finished.

Rev. Lingentfeller Condition Still Held Critical

Still on the critical list at Harbor General Hospital yesterday afternoon was Rev. Ben Lingentfeller, 86-year-old former Torrance minister.

Hospital authorities said, "He is not quite as responsive today (Wednesday) as he was yesterday."

Since his "retirement" 20 years ago he has continued active in church affairs in this community.

He lives at 23830 Pennsylvania avenue, Lomita.

The very well-known minister was injured in an auto crash February 26 when he was flung from his auto at Figueroa street and Ocean avenue. He was en route to visit a member of the congregation of the First Christian Church when he was struck by another auto.

Since his "retirement" 20 years ago he has continued active in church affairs in this community.

Girl Scouts, Brownies Set For Birthday

A chartered city bus will take local Girl Scouts and Brownies to the big 39th Birthday Celebration Saturday morning in the Shrine Auditorium, according to Alma Walton, publicity chairman of the local organizations.

The first bus load will leave Carson street and Plaza Del Amo at 8 a.m., Saturday, taking the Girl Scouts. At 12 noon, another bus will leave the same area taking the Brownies to the gala party.

A galaxy of radio and motion stars, including Ginger Rogers, Eve Arden, Roy Rogers, Tony Martin, Dinah Shore and Disc Jockey Don Otis will entertain the young ladies at the party. The Brownies will see an array of vaudeville acts and, of course, all will get to sample the huge birthday cake.

On the other hand, a gentleman with a southern accent took the trouble to call the paper with the observation that lion hunting was a thing of the past. "Anyone knows you gotta trap the thing, huh," he said.
